Borderlands La Frontera: The New Mestiza

Gloria Anzaldúa 2013 Revised and updated in 2013, this edition brings together the essential theoretical text that was first published in 1987. Anzaldúa weaves together cultural, spiritual, and personal reflection to lay a foundation for understanding the mestizaje experience.

Borderlands/La Frontera: The New Mestiza

Gloria Anzaldúa 1999 Second Edition: Gloría Anzaldúa’s majesty is its profound integration of personal and political history, of memory and desire, of the mind and the body. It is a beautiful book that will be an inspiration to many.

Borderlands La Frontera: The New Mestiza

The borderlands of language and culture explored in this collection are the landscapes of the Mesoamerican world, where the intersections of sign-systems are examined in the context of the Chicana experience. Anzaldúa’s work is a groundbreaking exploration of the mestiza experience, and has been influential in shaping contemporary Chicano/a and lesbian/queer theories and identities. As an editor of three volumes of This Bridge Called My Back, she played a major role in shaping contemporary Chicana and Chican@ identities and discourses.

This collection of critical introductions and essays is a testament to the richness and diversity of Anzaldúa’s work. It includes her reflections on her life and work, her theories of mestizaje, and her engagement with other scholars and thinkers. The collection is a valuable resource for scholars and students interested in the study of Chicana and Chican@ studies, as well as for those interested in the broader fields of cultural studies, feminisms, and postcolonial theory.

Introduction to the borderlands

Sonia Saldívar-Hull 2000-05-09 "Sonia Saldívar-Hull’s book proposes two moves that will, no doubt, leave a mark on Chicana and Latin American Studies as well as in cultural theory. The first consists in establishing alliances between Chicana and Latin American women’s studies as distinct, yet interrelated fields. In the second move, she is laying the groundwork for a Chicana theory and Chicana feminist studies.

Signs of the Americas: Indigenous Sign Systems and the Construction of Knowledge

Edgar Garcia 2020-01-23 Indigenous sign-systems, such as pictographs, petroglyphs, hieroglyphs, and khipu, are usually read as windows to an inaccessible past. That is far from the truth, however, as Edgar Garcia makes clear in Signs of the Americas. He explores the intersections between indigenous knowledge and cultural theory, and shows how the construction of knowledge is shaped by the ways in which knowledge is produced and transmitted.

Light in the Dark

Gloria Anzaldúa 2015-09-07 Light in the Dark is the culmination of Gloria E. Anzaldúa’s mature thought and the most comprehensive presentation of her philosophy. Focusing on aesthetics, ontology, epistemology, and ethics, it contains several important essays that reflect Anzaldúa’s deep commitment to the power of language and the importance of critical self-reflection.

Light in the Dark

Gloria Anzaldúa 2013-10-18 More than twenty years after the ground-breaking anthology This Bridge Called My Back called upon feminists to envision new forms of communities and practices, Gloria E. Anzaldúa and AnaLouise Keating have painstakingly compiled a thoughtful and instructive companion to the original collection.

Bright-sided

Jill K. Hope 2016-03-03 "Bright-sided" is a rare book in the sense that, while it is a collection of interviews with an influential writer and scholar, it is also a personal chronicle of a woman’s life and journey.

This Bridge Called My Back

Gloria Anzaldúa 1980-09-05 "This Bridge Called My Back" is a groundbreaking collection of essays by fourteen women who are working to redefine what it means to be a woman in the context of a multicultural society.

Borderlands: La Frontera: The New Mestiza

Gloria Anzaldúa 1987 "Borderlands / La Frontera: The New Mestiza is a critical de-centering of American Studies and Mexican Studies as usual, as the two cross our (genetically) created, positioned, and oriented in the border.” —Norris Arroyo, Professor of Ethnic Studies, University of California, Berkeley.

This Bridge Called My Back

Gloria Anzaldúa 1987 "This is a major critical essay for the sociocultural contextualization of Chicana women who subject to conditions of our realities along the border. Through a reading of Anzaldúa and Cross, Conchas, Chicana, and AnnaLouise Keating, we can see how the decontextualized text works, but very few is it how it is used. As deconstructionists, and history and biography graph into the literature which embodied wholeness may be possible.
